Tips and tricks for your start in Hohenheim

With this guide, we would like to give you an overview of the most important facilities for your start in Germany and the University. We have listed the three most convenient places for daily needs in and around Hohenheim. Of course, these are only suggestions, and you can always google for more, ask your fellow students or ask us.

1) Daily needs in and around Hohenheim

One of the first things you need to do is open a bank account and go for groceries and other necessities. We included medical services, too!

Good to know:

Deutsche Bank and Commerzbank have English paperwork available and have been proven to be very uncomplicated in dealing with international students. There are more bank branches, of course, like the Sparkasse which can be found in many places in Germany. Some banks do not have service branches, only online services, and ATMs, like the Sparda Bank. Most banks offer student accounts without additional fees or with special features. Pay attention if you want to withdraw money: you sometimes need to pay a withdrawal fee if you are not withdrawing it at “your” bank.

Good to know:

In Germany there are discounters and supermarkets, the difference is that discounters are usually cheaper but have a smaller range of products and/or fewer brands while supermarkets are often more expensive and have a more diverse range of products and sections for special diets like gluten-free or dairy-free. Many supermarkets sit next to a bakery or have their own bakery section where you can buy fresh bread and pastries. You can find everything for your daily needs in a supermarket; they even offer a few non-food articles like shampoo and hygienic products. If you are looking for a much larger range of hygienic products, incl. products for personal hygiene, period products, condoms, cosmetics, detergent, and cleaning utensils, visit one of the German drug stores dm, Müller or Rossmann. They also have some special diet foods like gluten-free, organic, vegan (usually dry food/storage stable), and milk alternatives.

Keep in mind that stores are closed on Sundays!

Good to know:

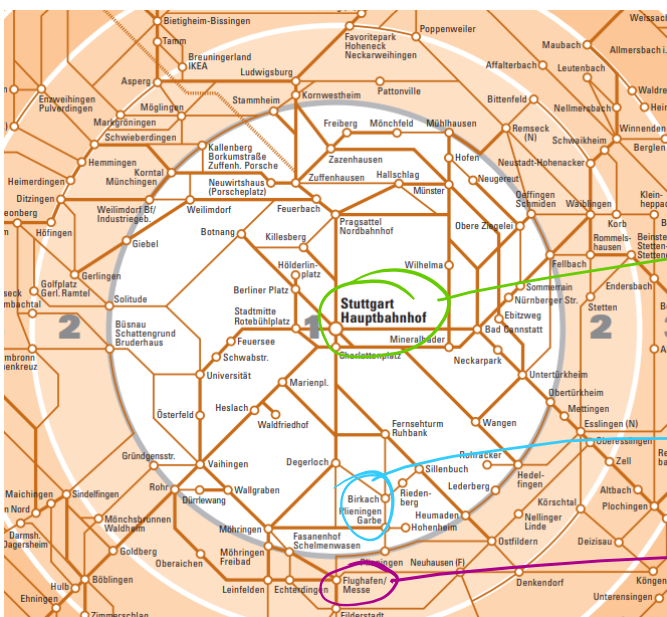

If you feel sick, you can just call the office of a general practitioner and make an appointment. Therefore, you'll need your health insurance card. General practitioners are only available on weekdays not on the weekends. If you dial 116117, you'll reach the medical on-call service for non-emergency cases which is available 24/7, the same is true for hospitals. You can also call 116117 if you have symptoms of Covid. In case of an emergency call 112 for emergency services or fire department, calling an ambulance in emergencies is covered by your German health insurance. Call 110 for police. German police are trustworthy, please call them if necessary.

2) Public transportation in and around Stuttgart

How does it work?

The public transportation company is called Stuttgart Transport and Tariff Association (VVS) and it also includes the Stuttgart Tramway Company (SSB). The VVS network has seven zones, the picture below shows the most important zones for travelling in and around Stuttgart city. Zone 1 includes Stuttgart city and Hohenheim. The airport is in zone 2. A single-way ticket costs €2.80 within zone 1 and €3.40€ for two zones. A day ticket is valid throughout the day and costs €5.60. We highly recommend you use the VVS app. Digital tickets are cheaper, too: €2.65 instead of €2.80, €5.30 instead of €5.60!

main station Stuttgart
S-Bahn, U-Bahn, buses, regional trains
+ Long-distance trains (DB) ①

University of Hohenheim, Plieningen, Birkach, Hohenheim ①

airport Stuttgart ②
S-Bahn, U-Bahn + buses

Your student ID card includes a subscription to the VVS network which is valid Mon – Fri from 6 p.m. until closing time, including night buses, as well as all day and night on weekends and public holidays. This includes buses, trams, subways, and the S-Bahn, as well as RB and RE trains, however, these are restricted up to certain stops. The VVS network does not include trains of the Deutsche Bahn (DB). If you want to take one of the long-distance trains like IC or ICE, you need to buy a ticket in the DB app or in one of their service points. You can find more information on the University website (<https://www.uni-hohenheim.de/en/vvs-student-ticket>) and on <https://en.vvs.de/home/>.
